

NAFPLIA PALACE

Hotel & Villas

Where Ancient History embraces Modern Luxury

July 2006

Nafplion, GREECE --- Thirty three hotel villas have been lovingly and luxuriously re-modelled with breathtaking beauty high over the rooftops of the delightful city of Nafplion. All have magnificent views across the magical Bay of Argolis and the Venetian fortified island of Bourtzi, azure sea by day, twinkling lights by night. The use of marble, wood, leather, steel and stone marry these exquisite new villas and suites into the archaeology of the ancient fortress.

Each villa is unique. Designed with fastidious detailing from the bathroom to the bed-linen. The spa within each bathroom offers a variety of treatments; from hydrojets to chromotherapy. Equipment levels are astonishing with plasma televisions, CD and DVD players, control panels for lighting and curtains, in-bathroom radios and televisions. Some even have home cinemas, aquaria and pivoting fire-places. All the villas have private pools and terraces while other rooms have exclusive use of an infinity pool flowing, it would appear, into the sea.

The villas have been created with function, form and pleasure firmly in mind. Designed to make each guest feel special, their stay memorable. Lunch is served beside the main pool at the traditional Greek Kafenion overlooking the Bay while the Lobby Bar offers a full menu and another magnificent viewpoint from an elevated terrace. The Animoni Restaurant, with its delicious gourmet Italian specialities, provides the perfect setting for a romantic candle-lit dinner. And when you are ready to dip your toe into the Aegean Sea, the hotel managed Arvanitia beach, with its own restaurant and bar, is just a few minutes walk away. The Nafplia Palace Hotel and Villas is a stunning place to stay. A unique destination for an unforgettable memory.
